Appleton Native Selected for Military Promotion

SECKENHEIM, Germany—Appleton native Sgt. 1st Class Bart R. Ranger has been selected by the U.S. Army for promotion to the rank of Master Sgt. Ranger is currently assigned to the 3rd Battalion of the 405th Army Field Support Brigade (AFSB) in Livorno, Italy. The 405th AFSB is headquartered in Seckenheim, Germany. Ranger is the Non-Commissioned Officer in Charge for the 3rd Battalion's support operations office.

“I am extremely proud of Sgt. Bart R. Ranger's unit and of his being promoted to the rank of master sergeant,” said the 405th AFSB Command Sgt. Maj. Paul Baxter, who is the senior non-commissioned officer for Soldiers throughout the brigade. “The promotion to master sergeant is an extremely difficult rank to obtain, and his selection is a testament to his dedication, sacrifice and service. I am pleased that the Army has chosen to recognize him in this manner.”

Ranger is the son of Ronald and Barbara ranger of Wrightstown and the brother of Beth Scharenbroch of Appleton.

The 405th AFSB conducts operations within the European theater by performing maintenance, equipment repair and storage missions during peace and war. It also integrates and synchronizes acquisition, logistics and technology capabilities for commanders and deploys on order to support joint expeditionary operations.
