

U.S. ARMY SUSTAINMENT COMMAND

Mr. Jeffrey T. Cline

Deputy to the Commander - Army Field Support Battalion-Carson

Mr. Jeffrey Cline serves as the deputy to the commander of the Army Field Support Battalion-Carson at Fort Carson, Colorado.

Mr. Cline is a retired active-duty Soldier with service in Iraq, Afghanistan, Kuwait, Qatar, Germany, South Korea, Japan, Hungary, Bosnia and numerous stateside assignments to include three tours at Fort Carson.

Mr. Cline is a lifelong Army logistician who served as a Soldier, defense contractor and government employee. His last three assignments were with the 403rd Army Field Support Brigade serving as the Support Operations officer at Camp Henry, South Korea; Headquarters, Surface Deployment Distribution Command G3 (Operations) Seaport Contract Management Branch, Scott Air Force Base, Illinois; and brigade S3 (Operations) 595th Transportation Brigade, Camp Arifjan, Kuwait.

Mr. Cline brings 40 years of leadership and management experience serving seven as a government employee, 30 years active-duty service in the Army, and three years in defense contracting.

Mr. Cline earned his Bachelor of Science in liberal arts from Excelsior College in Albany, New York, and completed his Master of Business Administration from Touro University in Los Angeles, California.

Mr. Cline is married and has two children.

March 2025

